Larry’s Lines...

The Accent Of Certainty

“We know,” wrote the apostle Paul, “that if the earthly tent we live in is destroyed, we have a building of God, a house not made with the hands, eternal in the heavens.”

In our age of doubt and confusion, how refreshing it is to hear the words, “I know.” It seems that now days there is really very little that we know for sure anymore.

The current knowledge explosion threatens to blast us headlong into an age of ignorance. Science and technology, instead of answering our questions, have created questions that we had never thought of. Our old concept of place, of space, and of time are lost in infinite space and time. Because of such things we all are tempted to exclaim with Faust:

I’ve studied now Philosophy
And jurisprudence, Medicine
And even alas! Theology
From end to end, with labor keen;
And here, poor fool! with all my lore
I stand, no wiser than before;
These ten years long, with many a woe,
I’ve led my scholars by the nose,
And see, that nothing can be known.

Is there a way out of this maze? It is apparent that present day information is so vast, and so awesome, that it baffles reason. We need some measure of stability in our lives so desperately, and hope springs alive when we hear the glorious word; “ We know.” ____ Which can only come to us from the power of God’s word.

Have a Great Week,
Larry
