

Larry’s Lines...

Thinking of Mother

Today we will be honoring the Lord, which is our purpose each Lord’s day, but his morning we will also be remembering and honoring our mothers. For me it will be a reflection on one who passed away July 18, 2006. However, for many of you it will be time when you can personally express your love and devotion either by phone or face to face. For your mother’s sake and yours don’t neglect the opportunity to do just that. You may not have that opportunity next year.

For me and many others, we honor the memory of our mothers. I would like to honor my mother, Bonnie Culbreath, with this poem I wrote for her at her death. She was and will always be the wind beneath my wings. I love you Mother.

Mother
There’s no other word like Mother
It has a special ring,
It bespeaks of tender loving care
And a million other things.

Now every Mother is special
Just like mine was to me.
Mine was a fine Christian Lady,
As you’d ever want to meet.

How she read to knot head boys
I’ll really never know,
She whipped us almost daily,
But we know she loved us so.

Oh the times that we did have,
There was happiness and tears.
But how I long for the days gone by,
Those carefree yesteryears.

My Mother put strength and courage
Into the heart of brother and I,
She said that if we walked with God
We would not be afraid to die.

I still remember my Mother’s words,
Even though my Mother is gone.
She said, “My son, if you get in trouble
You can always come back home”.

The thing I owe my Mother most,
If the gospel truth be told,
Is that her Christian example
Probably saved my immortal soul.

I will certainly miss my Mother,
Things will never be the same.
But now I know she can live forever,
Cause Jesus called her name.

She was a special lady,
Like her there will be no other.
I thank my God with all my heart,
For my precious Christian Mother.

HAPPY MOTHERS DAY!
Larry
